In the Large Town districts they are 18,211, being at the rate of 3·24 per cent. of the inhabitants; males 9316, females 8895. In the Small Town districts the births are 27,683, giving a birth-rate of 3·11 per cent.; males 14,178, females 13,505. In the Mainland-Rural districts they total to 25,099, at the rate of 2·74 per cent.; males 12,768, females 12,331. In the Insular-Rural districts the natal events number 2619, or 2·14 per cent. of the inhabitants; males 1326, females 1293. These proportions indicate the highest birth-rate to have been in the Large Town districts, followed in order by the Principal Town districts, Small Town districts, Mainland-Rural districts, and Insular-Rural districts.

Of the total births 8984 were illegitimate—equivalent to 6·98 per cent. of all. This rate varies considerably in the different districts, being 9·3 per cent. of the births in the Mainland-Rural districts, 6·7 per cent. in the Principal Town districts, 6·5 per cent. in the Small Town districts, 5·7 per cent. in the Large Town districts, and 5·2 per cent. in the Insular-Rural districts.

Table VI. shows the proportion of illegitimate births to every hundred births in each of the eight divisions and in each county of Scotland. The highest rate—that of 11·8 per cent.—occurs in the North-Eastern division, counties varies from 14·1 per cent., the highest, in Wigtown, to 3·5 per cent., the lowest, in Dumbarton. In nine counties the rate is above 10·0 per cent.—the highest being 12·3 per cent. in Kincardine, 12·5 per cent. in Banff, 13·1 per cent. in Dumfries, 13·5 per cent. in Caithness and in Elgin, and 14·1 per cent. in Wigtown.

Of the total 128,823 births registered during the year in Scotland, 65,796 were of the male sex and 63,027 of the female sex—the proportion of the former being to the latter as 104·4 is to 100, a proportion which varies somewhat in each district, the highest occurring in the Small Town districts, where 105·0 boys were born to every 100 girls; the lowest in the Insular-Rural districts, where it is 102·6.

Births were registered daily throughout the country month by month as follows:—337 during December, 340 during September, 342 during January and during November, 343 during October, 346 during February, 349 during August, 358 during July, 362 during May, 368 during March, 371 during April, and 377 during June.

DEATHS.

79,061 deaths were registered throughout Scotland during the year: males, 39,498; females, 39,563; together giving a mortality-rate of 1·87 per cent., or 187 in every ten thousand of the population as estimated.

The rate varies in each district, the highest falling in the Principal Town districts, of 208 per ten thousand of the inhabitants of the same; followed by the Large Town districts with a rate of 187 per ten thousand; the Small Town districts with one of 177; the Insular-Rural districts with one of 163; the lowest occurring in the Mainland-Rural districts, of 162 in like ratio.

The average number of daily deaths was registered in each month as follows:—188 during July, 189 during October, 195 during September, 202 during June and November, 206 during August, 218 during May, 224 during January, 225 during December, 243 during April, 248 during March, and 263 during February.

MARRIAGES.

30,966 marriages were registered in Scotland during 1897, which gives a marriage-rate of 73 in every ten thousand of the estimated population.

This rate, as in the case of the others, varies in each district; the highest, 92 per ten thousand, occurring in the Principal Town districts; the lowest, 34, in the Insular-Rural districts; the intermediate rates being 73 in the Large Town districts, 65 in the Small Town districts; and 53 in the Mainland-Rural districts.

The number of marriages reported to the Registrars each month is 1292 during May, 1501 during February, 1861 during April, 1871 during March, 1876 during October, 1902 during September, 2062 during August, 2234 during November, 3595 during July, 3807 during December, 4085 during January, and 4880 during June.

EIGHT OF THE PRINCIPAL TOWNS OF SCOTLAND.

The remarks which follow refer to the Births, Deaths, and Marriages which occurred during the year under review in the following Eight Principal Towns in Scotland, viz., Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dundee, Aberdeen, Leith, Paisley, Greenock, and Perth, the information upon which they are founded being furnished by periodical returns sent by the Registrars of the same. It is considered that the facts relating to these towns apply in a great degree to the country at large.

BIRTHS IN THESE EIGHT TOWNS.

The births registered in these towns number 48,949, which gives a birth-rate of 316 in every ten thousand of the population as estimated. The highest rate occurs in Leith, where it is 335 per ten thousand; followed by Glasgow with a rate of 334, Greenock with one of 331, Aberdeen with one of 329, Paisley with one of 313, Dundee with one of 295, Perth with one of 277, and Edinburgh with one of 273.

Of the total births, 45,500 were legitimate, and 3449 illegitimate; i.e., 7·0 of the latter in every hundred of the former. Illegitimate births were registered in largest proportion in Dundee, where they form 8·9 per cent. of the total births; followed by Aberdeen with 8·1 per cent., Edinburgh with 7·7 per cent., Perth with 7·2 per cent., Glasgow with 6·8 per cent., Leith with 5·4 per cent., Paisley and Greenock each having an illegitimate birth-rate of 5·2 per cent.

Table VIII. also indicates the proportion of illegitimate births registered during the year to the number of widows and spinsters between the ages of 15 and 45 years estimated to be living in those towns. Aberdeen stands first, with 1·69 per cent. of such; followed by Glasgow with 1·65 per cent., Leith with 1·58 per cent., Dundee with 1·55 per cent., Greenock with 1·42 per cent., Perth with 1·26 per cent., Edinburgh with 1·19 per cent., and Paisley with 1·03 per cent.

Of the births in these towns, 24,968 are males, and 23,981 females; so that for every 100 of the latter there were born 104·1 of the former.

DEATHS IN THESE EIGHT TOWNS.

32,824 deaths were registered in these towns during the year, being at the rate of 212 in every ten thousand of the population of the same. The male exits are 16,610, the female, 16,214.

The mortality-rate is highest in Greenock, where 222 in every ten thousand of its inhabitants died during the year; followed by Glasgow with a rate of 220, Perth with one of 219, Edinburgh with one of 213, Dundee with one of 207, Leith with one of 203, Paisley with one of 198, and Aberdeen with one of 179. When these rates are compared with the corresponding for last year (Table IX.), it is seen that in the case of every town, with the exception of Aberdeen, the rate for 1897 is above that for 1896, and when a further comparison is made between the present year and the mean of the preceding ten years, an increase in the death-rate for 1897 over that for the mean of the ten years is found to occur in Edinburgh, Leith, Greenock, and Perth, the reverse holding in the case of the remaining towns, Glasgow, Dundee, Aberdeen, and Paisley.

Table X. is computed to afford some information as to the mortality among children under five years of age in these towns. The total number of such deaths is 13,177, out of an estimated population of 188,649 at the same age, giving a death-rate of 70 per thousand. In Leith the rate is 76 per thousand alive at the same age, in Glasgow it is 74, in Edinburgh it is 73, in Dundee it is 69, in Greenock it is 68, in Aberdeen it is 52, and in Perth and in Paisley it is 51. When the mortality is estimated to the total deaths, the last column of the table shows how in every hundred deaths in Leith 48·7 were of children under five years of age, in Glasgow the percentage is 42·9, in Dundee it is 38·8, in Greenock it is 38·5, in Edinburgh it is 36·9, in Aberdeen it is 36·0, in Paisley it is 33·4, and in Perth it is 25·7,

Tables XI. and XII. give the percentage of deaths from various diseases in these towns, the former table calculated with reference to the population, the latter to the total deaths from all causes. In the eight towns collectively, the mortality-rate is 2·118 per cent. of their inhabitants estimated to be alive. The rate varies in each town from 2·217 per cent. in Greenock, the highest, to 1·789 per cent., the lowest, in Aberdeen. The rate from Zymotics in the towns together is 0·325 per cent. of their population, and is equal to 15·33 per cent. of the total deaths in the same. The highest mortality-rate from Zymotics is in Leith, where 0·364 per cent. of the inhabitants succumbed to these diseases, in Glasgow the rate is 0·362 per cent., in Edinburgh it is 0·360 per cent., in Greenock it is 0·359 per

WEATHER AND ITS INFLUENCE ON MORTALITY.

The following remarks on the weather of the year are extracted from the Notes made by Dr. Buchan, under the direction of the Council of the Scottish Meteorological Society, which appear in the Registrar-General's Quarterly Reports:—

The weather of January was characterised by a rather high mean pressure, with an unusually low average monthly range; a low mean temperature with a lower mean daily range than has occurred since January 1874; a very low humidity; a comparatively small rainfall, falling three days fewer than the average; an unwonted excess of northerly and easterly winds, and a deficiency of south-westerly winds.

The weather of February was characterised by a mean pressure a little above the average, with a rather low monthly range; a mean temperature of 1°·3 above the average, with a mean daily range rather under it; an average humidity; a rainfall one-fourth under the average, falling, however, on the average number of days; and a wind-force just under the average, with a slight excess of south-westerly and deficiency of north-westerly winds.

The weather of March was characterised by an unwontedly low mean barometric pressure, with a monthly range a little under the average; a mean temperature 1°·5 above the average, with a mean daily range 1°·2 under it; a mean humidity less than the average; a rainfall very much above the average, and falling on a larger number of days than during any previously recorded March; and a wind-force greatly above the average, with a three days' excess of south-easterly winds.

April was characterised by a rather low mean barometric pressure, with a monthly range also somewhat under the average; a mean temperature $2^{\circ}\cdot 1$ under the average, with the average mean daily range; a mean humidity slightly under the average; a mean rainfall very nearly the average, falling, however, on two days in excess of the average; three days excess of easterly winds, and a like deficiency of northerly wind, with a mean force about the average.

June was characterised by a mean barometric pressure rather above the average, with a monthly range a little above the average; a mean temperature a degree under the average, with a mean daily range lower than any that has occurred since 1879; a very large mean humidity, which during the past forty-two years has only been exceeded in 1872 and 1874; an unusually heavy rainfall, and falling on six days more than the average; and a large preponderance of easterly winds.

July was characterised by a mean barometric pressure considerably above the average, with a monthly range a little above it; a mean temperature fully a degree above the average, with an unusually large mean daily range, which during the last forty-two years was exceeded only in July 1868, when the range was $17^{\circ}\cdot 2$; a very low mean humidity, a mean rainfall, both in amount and frequency of fall, a good deal under the average; and a slight excess of north-easterly winds.

September was characterised by a mean barometric pressure and a monthly range both a little above the average ; a mean temperature about a degree and a half under the average, accompaied with a mean daily range unusually high ; a mean humidity rather less than the average ; a mean rainfall an inch under the average, but falling on two days more than the average ; and three days excess of north-westerly winds.

The weather of November was characterised by an unusually high mean barometer, with a very high monthly range ; a mean temperature higher than any hitherto recorded by the Society for November, with a mean daily range smaller than any hitherto recorded for the same month ; a mean humidity above the average, but with a mean rainfall greatly under the average, falling on one day more than the average ; and an unusual excess of winds from E., S.E., S., and S.W.

The weather of December was characterised by a very low mean barometer, accompanied by an unusually large monthly range ; a mean tempera-

Tables XIII. and XIV. give some facts regarding the meteorological conditions of the year, and the mortality among the inhabitants which occurred during each month of 1897, with, for the sake of comparison, corresponding information for the mean of ten years 1881–1890. The months of January, December, and February are those with the lowest mean temperature, but, except January, are higher than the mean of the same months of the ten years. The mean temperature of the year is a trifle above that for the mean of the ten years. Excepting the months of January, April, May, and September of the present year, the mean temperature of the others is more or less above that of the corresponding months of the longer period. The actual proportional mortality is highest during the colder months, being lowest during the months of summer and autumn.

Table XV., which refers to the Eight Towns, indicates the connection between some of the monthly meteorological conditions and the monthly deaths from the more important Miasmatic and some other diseases. There are but seven deaths from Small Pox in these towns during the year, one occurring in February, one in June, four in September, and one in November. Measles and its sequelæ causes its heaviest mortality during the early and more inclement months of the year. Scarlet Fever causes its largest number of deaths during the later months of the year, October, November, and December; the smallest during May and June. The deaths from Hooping Cough gradually increase from January to April, and fall steadily thereafter until December, when a considerable rise again takes place. Diphtheria causes its greatest mortality during the early spring months and those of autumn, its minimum during summer. Fevers bulk most largely during the autumnal months of September and October, and deaths from Diarrhoeal Affections may be chiefly noted during the last months of summer, and especially during August and September.

Phthisis is a marked cause of death during each month, but more especially so for the present year during its first six months.

The more acute diseases of the Respiratory Organs, as Pneumonia and Bronchitis, are distinctly most prevalent and fatal during the early and late months of the year, in fact during those in which the most inclement weather occurs; the fewest deaths from the same being registered during the warmer months of July and August. Much the same may be noticed as to deaths from Diseases of the Heart and Circulatory Organs, more stress of work being laid upon those during the colder than during the warmer months, and, as may be expected, when not sound are apt to give way under the pressure; and for the same reason the seasons at which the Brain succumbs to disease may be accounted for.

Tables XVII. and XVIII. give the number of deaths registered each month at four series of ages. Thus the mortality among children (0-5 years) was most marked during February, March, April, May, and August; least so during June and July.

Among Adolescents (5-20 years) the greatest mortality occurs during January, March, April, May, and June; the least during September, October, and November.

Adults (20-60 years) succumbed in greatest number during the first four months of the year, the fewest deaths among them being registered during July, August, and September.

The Aged, or those over 60 years, died in largest number during January, February, March, April, and December; the opposite during July, August, September, and October.

The general mortality among the residents of the above Eight Towns was greatest during March, gradually falling during February, January, April, May, December, August, November, July. September, June, October.

THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT

ON THE

VACCINATION OF CHILDREN

BORN IN SCOTLAND DURING 1896.

The Returns of Vaccination for the year 1896 show that, of the 129,245 children whose births were recorded in Scotland, 110,033, or 85·135 per cent., were successfully vaccinated. In 2843 cases certificates of postponement were granted, being at the rate of 2·200 per cent.; 544, or 0·421 per cent., were described as insusceptible of vaccination in consequence of some constitutional peculiarity; and 286, or 0·221 per cent., were insusceptible from having been vaccinated, but by persons who were not qualified to give certificates to that effect. 12,181 of the children born, or 9·425 per cent. died before vaccination, and 3358, or 2·598 per cent., were removed from the district in which they were born, previous to vaccination, or in some other way were unaccounted for. None of the children born were insusceptible in respect of having had Small Pox. It appears, therefore, that the number successfully vaccinated is slightly under the average of the previous ten years; that the proportion of postponed cases is above the average; the number constitutionally insusceptible is above the average; and the number insusceptible from previous successful vaccination is just about the average. The number of children removed from the district in which they were born, or in some other way unaccounted for, is above the average.

Table XX. shows the proportions to the total living children, those who died before being vaccinated being omitted, and from this it will be seen that, of the 117,064 children alive at the age of six months, 110,033, or 93·994 per cent., were successfully vaccinated; that in 2843 cases, or 2·429 per cent. vaccination was postponed; in 544 cases, or 0·465 per cent., the children were certified to be constitutionally insusceptible; and in 286 cases, or 0·244 per cent., the children were insusceptible from having been previously successfully vaccinated. In 3358 cases, or 2·868 per cent. the children were removed from the district in which they were born, or were otherwise unaccounted for.

Table XXI. shows the number of deaths from Small Pox in Scotland for each year from 1855 to 1895; the number given for 1897 is that which

APPENDIX.

VACCINATIONS, 1896.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REGISTRAR'S NOTES RELATIVE TO THE WORKING OF THE VACCINATION ACT.

I. NORTHERN DIVISION.

1. SHETLAND.

5. (2) BURRA ISLES.—The entry in Col. 7 refers to a child whose vaccination was twice unsuccessful, and sickness and distance from the Medical Officer (five miles by sea) have prevented the third operation.

II. NORTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

5. ROSS AND CROMARTY.

Mainland.

71A. (1) KINCARDINE.—The case of postponement is on account of Hooping Cough in the family and neighbourhood for a considerable time.

75. (1) LOCHBROOM.—The occurrence of an epidemic of Measles during the year accounts for several of the postponements, as well as some of those unaccounted for.

6. INVERNESS.

Mainland.

99. (2) LOCHABER.—This District, though thinly populated, is one of the largest in Scotland. Some of the parents' homes are thirty miles distant from the residence of the Medical Officer. The Parish Council have made arrangements for the Medical Officer to be at Spean Bridge and Roy Bridge, the two most central points, three times a year. The Registrar finds much more trouble with Vaccination than with Registration.

Insular.

110. (2) WATERNISH.—The cases entered in Col. 7 are almost all vaccinated, but not yet certified.

111. (1) NORTH HARRIS.—Vaccination much in arrear. Of the list of defaulters submitted to the Inspector of Poor on 1st October no certificate of any kind has been received. The Inspector of Poor was informed of this, that he might bring the matter under the consideration of the Parish Council, and his answer was that the Vaccinator must postpone the vaccination till spring on account of the severity of the weather.

111. (2) SOUTH HARRIS.—It is understood that the Vaccinator is prevented from performing the operation of Vaccination on account of the severe weather.

118. (1) BENBECULA.—In consequence of the prevalence of Hooping Cough, 4 of the children born in 1896 are returned as unaccounted for. It is expected, however, that in a short time these will be certified to have been successfully vaccinated.

III. NORTH-EASTERN DIVISION.

10. ABERDEEN.

215. LESLIE.—The only two cases of postponed vaccination are 1 for 1891 and another for 1893, both reported as in an unfit state of health for vaccination.

227. (b) NEW PITSLIGO.—In one case the father refuses to allow vaccination on the ground of conscientious scruples.

13. PERTH.

330. AUCHTERGAVEN.—The Act is not wilfully evaded, but delay from carelessness frequently occurs.

V. WEST-MIDLAND DIVISION.

19. ARGYLL.

Mainland.

525. (1) LISMORE.—From the prevalence of skin disease during the autumn, and as neither parents nor doctor care about vaccinating during the boisterous winter months, the number unaccounted for is very large.

526. LOCHGILPHEAD.—In consequence of the prevalence of Hooping Cough for several months, the number of postponed cases is unusually heavy.

530. NORTH KNAPDALE.—Measles and Hooping Cough being prevalent accounts for so many children being still unvaccinated.

Insular.

543. KILMENY.—Of the three cases entered in Col. 7, two have been vaccinated, although the certificates have not yet been sent. In the other case, the child has left the district.

548. SALEN.—It is understood that most of the children are vaccinated, although certificates to that effect have not been sent in.

VI.—SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

21. RENFREW.

567. (2) GOUROCK.—Lists of defaulters were duly submitted to the Parish Council, but no instructions in regard to them have been issued.

22. AYR.

598. KILMAURS. — One prosecution found necessary, the first since the passing of the Vaccination Act.

VII. SOUTH-EASTERN DIVISION.

25. EDINBURGH.

691. LASSWADE.—Owing to the stoppage of the Pentland Oil Works many families have removed from Loanhead and district within the past half-year, accounting for the abnormal number entered in Columns 2 and 7.

693. LIBERTON.—A good number of miners at Clippens Oil Works have left the district, and a number of the postponed certificates have just expired.

698. RATHO.—Only one case reported to the Parish Council, to which attention is being paid.

* The actual number of Districts is 1064—many Parishes and Burghs having been divided into two or more Districts for the purpose of Registration. Thus Edinburgh and Glasgow, to each of which only a single number is assigned in the Tables, consist of 6 and 14 Districts respectively. In forming the alphabetical arrangement the principle adopted has been to place compound names in the order in which they are pronounced.
